The Southern Furniture Exposition Building in High Point houses the exhibits of more than 240 home-furnishing manufacturers from all parts of the country. Twice a year, in January and July, a two week market is held here and almost three thousand retail furniture dealers from a wide area attend each market, to buy merchandise for their stores. This building is termed the "hub" of style and price information for a large portion of the country's retailers who come here in exclusion to visits to any other furniture market.
